BURLINGTON, Ontario (November 20, 2009) – eBRIDGE Software announced today that it will be releasing a new free Force.com integration application that will allow Salesforce.com Enterprise owners to extract opportunities into the eBridge ePortal. An extension of this functionality is the ability to integrate their data to over 37 accounting packages including Sage, Microsoft, Intuit, SAP Business One and more.

This new application by eBridge will allow Salesforce.com Enterprise owners to further streamline their data input and order processing between Salesforce.com and our ePortal solution. In using this free service, the user now has access to extended universal integration into over 37 supported accounting packages. Additionally, the user can now gain access to integration with eCommerce storefronts including Magento, Miva Merchant, Nexternal as well 100's of EDI Trading Partners eliminating the need to manually re-enter information.

“Becoming a user of the eBridge ePortal has enormous benefits including access to eCommerce, EDI and other integration solutions” said Dave Malda, Sales and Marketing Manager at eBridge Software. “This soon to be released Force.com application will allow users to begin to integrate their data to one central place for all crucial business system data”.

About eBridge ePortal

The ePortal Software-as-a-Service (SaaS) platform has been proven a powerful business integration engine in the small to medium sized business (SMB) market, with its ease of use and short setup time required for vendors to implement. ePortal was designed with Web 2.0 architecture in mind and so, provides the ability to view inbound and outbound documents in a user-friendly format from any remote station that has access to the internet. Web-friendly interface forms are used to enter data for outbound documents, which are then sent to the trading partner in the required EDI format. Our ePortal software as a service solution uses flexible and soft-coded XML technology as well as support for numerous EDI formats (ANSI X12, EDIFACT, etc.), resulting in an independent and flexible Integration Solution that effectively integrates with your financial system while meeting your company’s unique internal business processes.
