

eBridge Software Launches SalesAmigo: Online Service Makes Order Processing a Snap for Small Businesses.

BURLINGTON, Ontario (June 17, 2008) – eBRIDGE Software announced today that it has launched its much-anticipated SalesAmigo online service that seamlessly imports eBay orders and posts them into the popular QuickBooks accounting system.

For Web Store owners, that means no more manual inputting – no more data entry errors, incorrect shipments, sales returns, or time-consuming labour costs. SalesAmigo takes the ‘pain’ out of order processing.

To celebrate the launch, eBRIDGE is offering a free trial period. Just go to www.SalesAmigo.com to sign up.

“Now Web Store owners can focus on growing their business rather than having to worry about order processing,” explains eBRIDGE CEO Colin Brown. “SalesAmigo is liberating. It gives smaller businesses leading-edge Web integration solutions previously available only to the larger companies.” Connections for Amazon, PayPal, UPS and other web applications and accounting packages are expected this year.

How does it work? The ‘touchless’ software has three elements to ensure a smooth and error-proof data entry process. The ePortal service monitors the store owner’s account activity on eBay on a continuous basis. As soon as an order is placed, ePortal picks up the order and sends it to the SalesAmigo On-Premise Application. The SalesAmigo Application minimizes data entry time with automatic matching of eBay sales transactions to customers and items in QuickBooks. Finally the data is integrated so that no additional work within QuickBooks is required. Integration into QuickBooks can be scheduled in or performed on command.

Foam Factory of Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, was one of the first companies to connect to eBay using this eBRIDGE technology. The decision has paid dividends for this manufacturer of mattress pads, acoustic soundproofing and other foam products. “We knew the benefits of integration,” says Carlo Badalamenti of Foam Factory. “But we were also impressed – and relieved – that eBRIDGE has the system to handle all the other complicated matters involving connection, communication, and data transformation.”
